FESTIVE HIGHLIGHTS

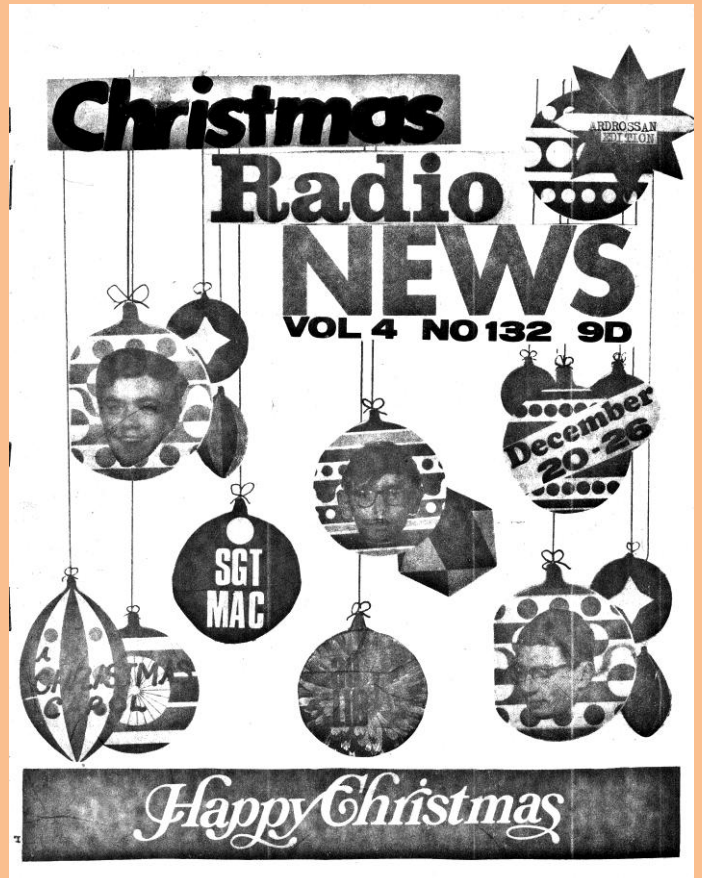

There is much to enjoy on Radio Six International over the Holiday period, even if there's little to enjoy outside! Festivities get under way on December 24th at 1700 when we turn the clock back half a century to listen again to Christmas Teatime with Tony exactly as it was broadcast fifty years ago on Christmas Day 1970. For this year's special festive offering from TC, tune in at 0600 on Christmas Day for the usual Christmas Cracker of seasonal music and dedications.

In London, André Leon has been working hard on a special programme highlighting the many Bells that resound at this time of the year in musical works with Christmas Bells at 1000, followed by the official debut of Keith Skues on the station, although back in the late 60s and early 70s, we relayed some of his Radio 1 programmes on the wired network in Ardrossan!

From the plentiful stock of special programmes in our library come Libby's Love Songs at 1200 with former soap actress Libby Macarthur's selection of music, and The Blue Carbuncle at 1515 as the late John Toye narrates a special seasonal Sherlock Holmes tale. At 1415, Tony Currie celebrates fifty years since the launch of Glasgow's hospital broadcasting service, of which he was a part all those years ago, and shares some memoirs with others who were in at the start.

The MonaLisa Twins final performance as residents at Liverpool's Cavern Club can be enjoyed at 1600 and there's a new offering from Paul and Spike at 2100 before the exciting conclusion to this year's Record of the Year judging. As Xmas turns to Boxing Day, DJ CVRRIE spins a new set of platters, and later at 0645, John Peters and Graham Sclater discuss the year's Top 3 Books.

50 YEARS AGO

Christmas 1970 was a lavish affair, and the special edition of Radio News was lavish too, stretching to 18 pages, and including as well as Radio Six, the programmes of Tiger Television (in Aberdeen), Forth Radio Network (in Edinburgh, GWHBS (the brand new hospital radio service in Glasgow) and Monte Carlo International which featured Dave Cash, Tommy Vance and Pasionella Grundy.

Radio Six has fairly normal weekday fare until Xmas Eve, when "Sleigh Ride" started things off at 10.30am. Quite a lot of daytime and evening was taken from BBC Radios 2 and 4 but highlights included Gordon Macdonald reading the serialised "A Christmas Carol". Christmas Day launched (as it still does) with Tony Currie at 6am, and regulars "Sgt Mac" (Gordon Macdonald) at 8am, Dougie Allan at 10, Chris Seabury at 11, and Noel Party Etcetera from Aberdeen with Colin Dalziel, Colin Auld and William Fulton.

In the afternoon Ad Lib interviewed Eric Macdonald about his views on life, and the evening included TC's party with Dave Jamieson; Bill Macintyre's "Christmas Beat" and a late night with Mac. Plus "Christmas Teatime with Tony" which - thanks to modern technology - you can hear again in its pristine stereo state on Christmas Eve this year at 5pm!

CHRISTMAS EVE

0000 CHRISTMAS AT RANDOM

Take several hundred seasonal songs, mix them up thoroughly and draw them out entirely at random – that's the formula for our non stop offering of Christmas music old and new, familiar and unfamiliar.

Produced by TONY CURRIE

0600* NOTHING BUT THE BEST

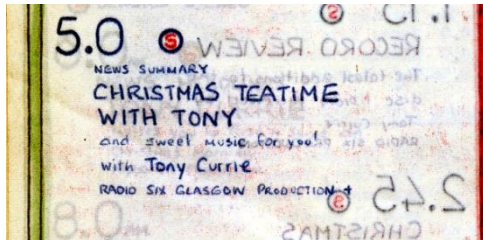

Tony Currie and his weekly hour of classical music from all eras. From our Glasgow studios.

0700 SEQUENT SOUNDS

Uninterrupted music drawn from past playlists curated by Tony Currie. Over four thousand tracks to choose from, and our computer is scrupulously fair in giving them all their share of the spotlight.

Produced by TONY CURRIE

1700 FIFTY YEARS AGO

Half a century ago, Tony Currie travelled from Ardrossan to Glasgow, where Radio Six shared the tiny studio at 114 West Campbell Street with the hospital station Radio Phoenix. It had much better kit than the Ardrossan studio, allowing TC to record his festive show in proper stereo. Listen out for an unwanted guest and TC gushing about the cost of each piece of equipment! Interestingly, he's still playing exactly the same records. – J.C.

1800 CROONERS AT CHRISTMAS

The late Freddy Cole who passed away in June of this year hosted a special programme of music by some of the all time greats for us a few years ago. It seemed appropriate for us to play this again in tribute to a fine singer and a great guy.

Produced by ANDRÉ LEON
(see below)

1900 KENNY TOSH REVIVAL SHOW

From Belfast, the best music from the days of offshore radio.

2000 ROTY AT RANDOM

As usual, our team have selected 25 tracks from the 250 or so that have graced Random Play in the past twelve months.

At 2200 tomorrow, we'll find out their chart positions and that all-important winning track, but before that we're running up to Xmas Day by playing a non stop random selection from the top 25.

Produced by TONY CURRIE

FREDDY COLE (1931 – 2020)

Freddy Cole was born to on October 15th, 1931 in Chicago to Rev. Edward J. Coles and Perlina (Adams) Coles, and grew up in the city.. His brothers Nat 'King' Cole (1919–1965), Eddie (1910–1970), and Ike (1927–2001) also each pursued careers in music. Freddy began playing piano at the age of six, and continued his musical education at the Roosevelt Institute in Chicago. He moved to New York in 1951, where he studied at the Juilliard School of Music before completing a master's degree at the New England Conservatory of Music.

Following the moderate success of "Whispering Grass" on Okeh Records in 1953 he spent several months on the road with Johnny Coles and Benny Golson as the Earl Bostic band. During the 1970s, Cole recorded several albums for European and British labels. He went on to work with Grover Washington, Jr. and to record jingles for various companies, including Turner Classic Movies. He was the subject of the 2006 documentary, 'The Cole Nobody Knows'. In June of that year, Cole was added to the Steinway Artist roster. Cole was inducted into the Georgia Music Hall of Fame in 2007. In July 2009, he released a recording featuring his own quartet (guitarist Randy Napoleon, drummer Curtis Boyd, and bassist Elias Bailey), along with alto saxophonist Jerry Weldon and pianist John DiMartino, playing live at Dizzy's jazz club in Lincoln Center. His 2010 album, Freddy Cole Sings Mr. B, was nominated for the Grammy in the category Best Jazz Vocal Album. The album features tenor Houston Person, pianist John DiMartino, guitarist/arranger Randy Napoleon, drummer Curtis Boyd, and bassist Elias Bailey. In 2010, his publicist Al Gomes scored Cole his first national TV appearance in years, performing live on the Jerry Lewis MDA Telethon.

His 2018 album, My Mood is You was also nominated for a Grammy for Best Jazz Vocal Album; the album features Napoleon, Bailey, DiMartino as well as drummer Quentin Baxter and tenor Joel Frahn. Arrangements are by Napoleon and DiMartino. Cole's influences included John Lewis, Oscar Peterson, Teddy Wilson and Billy Eckstine. When speaking of Eckstine, Cole recalled, "He was a fantastic entertainer. I learned so much from just watching and being around him."

Guitarist Randy Napoleon, who has been playing and recording with Cole since 2007, said: "Freddy just glides through life. He's got a lot of patience, warmth, a great sense of humour. The music is really inseparable from the person...One of the things that makes Freddy really great is his elegance and careful, judicious editing. He doesn't play a lot of notes on piano, but the ones he plays really do make the band feel great. They're melodic, it swings, and that's it. He doesn't feel you need a lot of extra, fancy stuff."

Freddy Cole died on June 27, 2020, aged 88. We're repeating his excellent "Crooners at Christmas" programme on Christmas Eve at 1800.

SKUES ON SIX

Broadcaster and author Keith Skues is something of a legend in the world of radio. Called up for National Service, he was posted to the British Forces Network in Cologne, Germany.

He is the only broadcaster in the world to have worked with BFN, Radio Caroline, Radio London (Big L) and Luxembourg, independent local radio and BBC national, regional and local radio. Now he adds Radio Six International to his portfolio! Keith served for many years as an RAF squadron leader reservist and was awarded the Air Efficiency decoration in 1995. Now resident on the Norfolk Broads with his collection of 300,000 records, he recently presented his final show for the BBC and is author of several books including an enormous history of Pirate radio.

He was made a Freeman of the City of London, 1997. Keith was appointed Member of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire in the New Year Honours List 2004, for services to broadcasting and charity, personally presented by Her Majesty The Queen. In 2005 he received a lifetime achievement Gold Badge Award from the British Academy of Composers and Songwriters. 2019 marked Keith's 60th year in front of the microphone, working in radio studios as far afield as East Africa, the Middle East and the fabled watery wireless ships on the North Sea. That would perhaps be enough to put him in a disc jockey's radio hall of fame, but he then went on to be the second voice on Radio 1 after Tony Blackburn opened the station in September 1967. Now, after many years on BBC Local radio in the Eastern Counties of England, his voice crosses the Border in time for a Christmas Day special on Radio Six International.
